

Company Inductions

Company inductions are a crucial part of any new starters experience of joining a business. It's very important to make a positive first impression on your new hire as you have invested a lot in bringing them in to the business.

The personal connections and bonds that are formed during inductions are usually maintained throughout an employees life cycle and really help the new employee feel part of the team.

I have a proven track record of creating corporate inductions for international companies and can help you create a corporate induction tailer made to your organisations needs. My inductions provide a mix of activities including physical tours where possible, group work, quizzes, discussions and presentations.

I am able to increase the scope of the induction as far as you would like in relation to other business process, additional processes I can support with are:

- Support on how to communication with the new hire before the start date
- What the first day should look like (L&D/ Talent processes)
- Buddy system
- Induction e-learnings
- Onboarding checklists (L&D/ Talent processes)
- Induction day / company presentation/ networking
- Ongoing support from buddy and manager
